PREPARED FOR CLIENT NAME

Document title goes here

One-line subtitle: what this document is and who it is for

3	1	5
QUESTIONS	MUST ANSWER	SECTIONS

> The lede: two or three plain sentences on the cover saying what the reader gets from this document and what you need from them. It sits on the dark cover next to a lime bar.

Prepared by Omnikom. The closing note on the cover goes here.

01 / 05

A section with bullet points

- Lead phrase in bold: then the plain sentence that explains it. Keep each bullet to one idea.
- Another point: bullets get a small square marker and a thin rule between them.

> You get: a bullet that starts with "You get:" turns into a highlighted outcome box, for the result of a step.

02 / 05

A section with a table

STEP	WHAT WE DO	WHAT YOU GET	TYPICAL TIME
1. First step	Short description of the work	The visible result	2 to 3 days
2. Second step	Short description of the work	The visible result	1 to 2 weeks
3. Third step	Short description of the work	The visible result	depends on you

03 / 05

A section with a plain paragraph

Plain paragraphs need a blank line before them. Use them for context that is not a list: one short paragraph, plain words, no jargon.

- And then bullets again: paragraphs and bullets can mix in one section.

04 / 05

A section with questions to fill in

01 MUST ANSWER A question the reader has to answer.

Fill-in lines look like this

_____

WHY WE ASK one line saying why the answer matters.

02 A question with tick boxes:

☐ First option ☐ Second option ☐ Not sure

WHY IT MATTERS the label of this line can be "Why we ask", "Why it matters" or "When".

03 A question with a tick table, one box per row and column.

	MINE	THEIRS	NOT SURE
First thing to tick	☐	☐	☐
Second thing to tick	☐	☐	☐

05 / 05

A section with a bar chart

EXAMPLE COMPARISON (A STARRED ROW IS DRAWN IN LIME: THAT IS "US")

